The composite chart represents the fusion of energy that two people create when they come together. It is a third being. Like a child, it inherits qualities of both parents, though it has a life all its own and exists independently of either of them. The following interpretations should be regarded as being for the relationship itself, taken as an independent entity, as this relates to the meaning for each individual within it.

Introduction

The Relationship Report for two individuals applies to any type of relationship. It focuses on the relationship itself, rather than on the individuals who make it up. First a composite chart (mid-point chart) is created. The composite chart represents the fusion of energy that two people create when they come together in relationship. It is a third being. Like a child, it inherits qualities of both parents, though it has a life all its own and exists independently of either of them. The following interpretations should be regarded as being for the relationship itself, taken as an independent entity.

In the following report, each planetary placement and aspect is examined to reveal the basic qualities of your relationship, with the most important factors described first. Please keep in mind that these descriptions are not meant to put limitations on the relationship, but merely to describe its inherent tendencies. Challenging aspects can become the greatest strength of a relationship if you can both learn how to successfully navigate those issues, with good communication between you playing a vital role. For definitions of astrological terms, please refer to the glossary at the end of this report.

Chart Patterns

Funnel, focal planet Mars

You have the planetary pattern type called the 'funnel' shape. All your planets form a group, with the exception of the focal point, one planet or two planets in conjunction.

Your energies tend to be channeled through this focus. You will have abilities in the occupied area of the chart, and goals in the direction of the focal point. The focal planet(s) symbolizes how your energies will be expressed, and where you seek to have your needs met or achieve your purpose.

The placement of Mars in the composite chart reveals the area of your shared activity in pursuit of partnership goals, and where ego needs may be identified.

Mars in the Eighth House (or sign) brings out a passionate and intense drive in your relationship. You two tend to move in proud, strong-willed and stubborn ways, and you create a noticeable presence that will likely prove to be a powerful influence on those around you. It may work best if you make an effort to take this naturally competitive drive and consciously create a shared alliance around a specific activity such as joint investments or investigations. In a romantic context, your shared sexual energy is very important to both of you, making this an ideal placement for passionate involvement. Your joint instinct is powerful, and often confidently enacted. Your urge for personal security is strong, and when you let your ego-drives interfere with your good sense, you may lapse into quarrelsome and self-indulgent patterns. When higher consciousness is involved, you can tap into great healing energies for your relationship and for each other individually. You each like getting your own way, so that it is important to you align your goals, and when you do, you create a powerful synergy. When you cultivate self-discipline and strive for objective rather than selfish motivations, the power of your shared drive can have a profound effect on both of you and on the world around you as well.

Composite Mars in Taurus (or the second house) brings out a persistent and patient drive in your relationship and gives it an endurance that may outlast many others. Your shared energy may not burst from the gate and it may take one or the other of you working individually to get things started, but once you do get things going, they will tend to keep going. Since money and security are important shared concerns this is a good placement for business partnerships. Taken to an extreme, your relationship can also bring out inflexibility in each of you or possessive attitudes. In romantic relationships, you may go out of your way to experience sensual pleasures and luxury. If there are challenging aspects to Mars, you could find that you need to work through a tendency for acquisitiveness, or resentment toward each other. As a partnership you are likely to have an artistic flair and you function well in the realm of the material and tangible world. You benefit when you cultivate an attitude of sharing and a more relaxed approach toward money matters.

Yod, focal planet Mars

You have a Yod planetary aspect pattern in your chart, also known as the 'finger of God'. This pattern consists of two different planets forming inconjunct aspects of 150° to a third, or focal, point. Usually there will be a marked emphasis on the area of life represented by this focal point, which may be one planet, or two or more in conjunction. You may have physical or psychological problems associated with the expression of the energies of the focal planet or planets, creating a subtle form of tension in your life. The key is adjustment. Your lesson is to transform the expression of these energies along more positive lines.

Important Features

Composite Saturn in Cancer (20° Can 58')

Composite Saturn in the Tenth House

Saturn in the composite chart reveals the area of your shared experience where you will encounter limitations and build long-lasting success through trials of accomplishment.

Saturn in the Tenth House (or sign) brings out an ambitious and clear-minded quality in your relationship, with a strong sense of shared responsibility. Saturn finds its most natural placement here, and together you tend to be especially persistent, careful and calculating, with a strong capacity for mastery and achievement. In a romantic relationship, you may be so achievement oriented that there is a danger of missing out on the more personal goal of simply relating to each other, perhaps because you are working through subconscious fears that if you don't conquer the world first, then it will conquer you instead. The trick is to balance your mutual need for achievement with just being, with no need for anything beyond the sharing of yourselves with each other. As a partnership you tend to be cautious and rarely take chances. You may have difficulties, limitations or delays in the achievement of your joint goals, but your careful approach usually leads to success in the end. When your relationship is at its best, it can help you move from a personal drive for power in the world into an enlightened process of acting for the betterment of society itself.

Composite Saturn in Cancer (or the fourth house) symbolizes a blockage or a deepening and concentration between you regarding your sense of safety and security in your relationship and also your capacity to express feelings. One or both of you may seem to be rigid and unemotional to the other, and this behavior might stem from problems with the parental care and guidance received in your early years, so that these issues are up for healing. You may also feel limitations around the creation and maintenance of any shared space that you might establish. Security is very important to your relationship and may take the form of a joint striving for material rewards. The more that each of you can accept and integrate the personal and intimate world of your own and each other's feelings, the more you will break through barriers of fear and isolation and experience true intimacy and love with each other. You are also quite likely to have a focus on your home environment. If you share a home or plan to, there will be a strong mutual interest in making it a good one, and also difficulties to overcome in this regard. You may put a tremendous amount of work into this project, but the eventual result creates a powerful bond between you. Another major lesson in this relationship is to more fully and deeply understand and value your partner's true origins, as different as they may be from your own. This will bring about greater understanding and acceptance between you, and eventually build a sense of security within the relationship.

Composite Uranus in Scorpio (2° Sco 16') Composite Uranus in the Second House

Uranus in the composite chart reveals the area of your shared experience where you will encounter unusual and unexpected circumstances and where the relationship benefits from lack of structure.

Uranus in the Second House (or sign) symbolizes a relationship with an eclectic focus on shared security and material possessions. You are likely to be concerned about maintaining stability in what is almost guaranteed to be a changing environment. You may have shared possessions or finances that you value at one point, but this can change rather suddenly, and you may have to start over from scratch. In a romantic context, your shared income can also fluctuate. As a result of all this flux, you may find it easier to simply create your own set of values, or to experiment with alternative lifestyles. If yours is a working partnership, you are likely to value your autonomy and you may be motivated to start your own business together. You two benefit from getting in touch with what you truly value, as opposed to what conventionality dictates. Then your efforts will allow new resources, both material and spiritual, to evolve in your life and consciousness, adding to the greater good of society.

Composite Uranus in Scorpio (or the eighth house) symbolizes a relationship that is willful with an eclectic sense of shared values and an unusual emotional connection. There is likely to be an undercurrent of feelings between you, which may in fact uncover each partner's secret depths. Shared finances are also apt to fluctuate. Your relationship also has the potential for dramatic eruptions under stress, whether physical, financial or emotional. In a romantic relationship the emotional stress that you feel from time to time may be part of the charm of the connection. Sexual passion may have a fitful quality to it, with great intensity at times, and also times when you need to take space from each other. You may also feel that you are psychically linked, and be able to tune in on each other's feelings from a distance. You may also experience joint loss through the sudden departure or unexpected death of a loved one. If so, such a trial may serve an underlying purpose in your shared life and go a long way to deepen intimacy and understanding between you. As a partnership, you share a keen intuition and great power to transform yourselves and your relationship as you evolve. You also may share an unconventional fascination with sexuality, or issues of death and rebirth. Your relationship exists in part to enable each of you to discover new dimensions of your individual emotional experience.

Composite Venus in Scorpio (9° Sco 52')

Composite Venus in the Second House

It is very likely that you will own your own home or property at some point in time, should you remain together. You like to entertain and show off your possessions and your living space. Just be careful not to let your appreciation of the finer things of life distract you from the internal beauty of the love you feel between you. As a partnership, you do well in investment or real estate. You value material things and excel in the appraisal and exchange of these things, and indeed with your finances generally. You have your feet very much on the ground in these matters. You also value art for art's sake, and will always be able to take an abiding sense of enjoyment from music and the arts.

Composite Venus in Scorpio (or the eighth house) indicates a deep emotional connection between you and also a solid basis in your relationship for shared finances. In your partnership, a great deal of value is placed on feelings. There is likely to be a serious degree of affection between you with an intensity of emotion that runs deeper than ordinary friendship. Over the course of time, one or both of you may come into a new viewpoint on your own internal process of integration through the agency of this relationship. Obviously this placement makes great sense in a romantic context. Your contact goes entirely beyond surface associations and may include passionate physical connection as well as profound feelings for each other. The depth of your sharing brings powerful emotions within each of you closer to consciousness, and you may find a transformational seismic shift is unleashed within your own psyche through the love you share. As a partnership, you handle shared resources well, either your joint finances or those of others. You are adept at handling other people's money. Together you have the gift to discern what is most important in making the next fiduciary move. You will always have more to learn from each other, especially at an emotional level.

Composite Jupiter in Libra (20° Lib 06')

Composite Jupiter in the First House

In a romantic context, a feeling of can-do is an important component of your self-image with each other. You are unusually fortunate in most things that you attempt, and possess a jovial sense of fun that makes your way easier along your shared road. You have an extremely optimistic nature as a duo. You two tend to see possibility in everything, jointly viewing the glass as half-full rather than half-empty. This is valuable, and takes you far in life. You benefit by making sure that the natural faith you have in your relationship's power remains grounded and focused on assessing practical steps in a sustainable way and when you temper your boundless enthusiasm with a healthy sense of limitation.

Composite Jupiter in Libra (or the seventh house) emphasizes the refined and idealistic aspects of your relationship. You two tend to experience the relationship itself as the true source of your shared happiness and this placement is one of the very best for romantic relationships. Together, you work well with other people, and may become known for your fairness. You each grow when you engage in these kinds of activities. You may form the type of partnership that will make a habit of championing both sides of a dispute and making sure that the underdog has his say. You may also be outwardly-directed as a partnership, and concerned with what others might think. In a romantic relationship, you are likely to find enjoyment everywhere together. Your relationship grows through exploring art and beauty wherever you may find it. You benefit when you develop your shared capacity to stop and smell the flowers and follow your energy to serve each other and the relationship, so that rather than pursuing the socially derived mandate to steam ahead, you allow your focus to be on simply getting your boat down the river.

Composite Chiron in Aries (27° Ari 37'R) Composite Chiron in the Seventh House

Chiron in the composite chart reveals the area of your shared experience where you will encounter patterns of wounds and deep connection and where eventual healing and empathy will occur.

Chiron in the Seventh House (or sign) indicates a relationship that provides you both with an opportunity to face and heal deeply held wounds regarding your ability to relate with each other and those around you intimately. With this placement, you share a tremendous desire to connect with other people, as well as a tremendous frustration that arises from your inability to do so. Your attempts to connect may have been frustrated through experiences of early childhood, when you each wanted contact with others but were rejected or somehow prevented from establishing meaningful relationships with them. As a consequence, you have focused on these connections ever since and perhaps created this relationship in an attempt to finally heal these wounds. It becomes extremely important to establish a connection with another person, yet this contact, so desired and even longed for, can also be extremely painful. Any partial rejection can cause you to have to revisit the original pain. As time goes on, you may notice you sabotage your relationship experiences. You may also become compulsively attached to the idea of close personal involvement, valuing a desired union over your experience as an isolated ego, "on your own". Yet your very wholeness depends on your being able to stand independently. As you take advantage of this connection to become more fully conscious of the early wounding that you experienced, you can move through your pain toward a less fear-based way of relating, without recreating the self-undoing or the extreme sensitivity from before. You may also find that you can take the conscious knowledge you have gained through this process further by helping other people deal with these same issues. As you grow sure of yourselves, your wisdom with interpersonal relationships becomes a great source of strength for you relationship and for those around you as well.

Composite Chiron in Aries (or the First House) indicates a relationship that provides an opportunity for the two of you to face and heal deeply held wounds with regard to your vital force to be and to initiate within the relationship. With this placement of Chiron, your very sense of the relationship may be threatened by disturbing realizations and painful memories. Together, you may work through pain that arose from feeling belittled and put down, rather than encouraged, by the significant adult figures around you in your formative years. Within this relationship you may encounter and overcome obstacles that prevent yourselves from reaching your full potential. You may find that in this relationship, you operate more from a fear of failing than from the expectation of success that would breed confidence for further achievement. You may find yourselves sacrificing your own goals to the goals of the other, or to those around you, because they seem somehow more important or at least deserving of priority treatment. Either one of you may feel a keen lack of achievement in your own life, and compensate by trying too hard to help others, putting yourself in the background. As long as these relationship patterns operate more or less unconsciously, they are difficult to overcome, so the first step in surmounting them is to become more conscious of what's going on inside. Become aware of your own pain. Acknowledge and discover more about what exactly went on in past relationships to make you both feel so resigned with your present abilities in this one. At that point you can begin to come out from behind your painful experiences and really show yourselves to each other and to the world around you. With a more conscious understanding of your own dynamics, you can begin to help others in how they deal with similar issues, transforming your false sense of vicarious achievement into a strong center of true friendship.

You may be the first ones to respond to a problem when it comes your way. Regardless of how you operate on your own, you tend to jointly react to situations with action rather than reflection. Allow the passion to come when it comes, and go when it goes; you can trust it will eventually return again, as enthusiastically as ever. In this relationship, you may find you can hold space for each other so you can each share pent up feelings from experiences in the outside world. You may find you also have a strong competitive streak when you are together, which, combined with an attack-first attitude, may reveal subtle feelings of insecurity if carefully examined. Your relationship will tend to evoke in each of you a strong sense of independence and great physical daring and courage.

With all the courtesy and graceful elegance that passes between and around you, it is helpful if you can ensure that your genuine emotional reactions also get across. Together you like to please and should beware of a tendency to be all things to all people. Neptune in the Third House (or sign) brings out a clever and subtle charm in your communication with each other, with also the possibility of misunderstandings between you. This placement can bring indecision to your communication process with each other, and an idealism of the latent potential for connection between you that does not always find its realization. There may be misapplied models of understanding that cause some degree of deception in the information that you receive from each other, either intentionally or due to unconscious behavior on the part of one or both of you. On the up side, your broad-mindedness and creative mentality together may make up for the potential difficulties. In a romantic relationship, you two tend to be witty and poetic together, with a love of dreaming that ranks just above your love of learning. There is a possibility that verbal interaction may lead to some confusion, no matter how hard you work to clearly express yourselves. You benefit from developing your capacity to communicate together non-verbally, through touch or dance. If you take the time to focus your joint creative potential you might find yourselves channeling mystical wisdom that comes from beyond and serves you better than the mundane information that is routinely available.

Composite Neptune in Sagittarius (or the ninth house) brings an impressionable, idealistic and highly intuitive quality to your relationship. As a partnership, you two are likely to be inclined to the mystical, and high minded, perhaps seeing life in terms of the poetic rather than the practical. You have a natural bent for philosophical discourse or perhaps teaching together, but you may need to guard against over-idealization. You are likely to share a belief in the unknown, and to have a great desire to explore, travel and experiment with new ways of doing things. In close interpersonal relationship, you can always enjoy the extra romantic edge that comes along with your shared adventuring. Together you may have an urge to get away from it all on a regular basis, and may be attracted to spiritual studies, or psychedelics and the like to achieve transcendent states. You may also find that your joint energy burns out as brilliantly as it blazes up, and it will benefit you to build rest and recuperation time into your shared life together.. It is helpful to you to take short rests apart from each other, especially if your individual sun signs are other than fiery Aries. Regardless of how either of you may be separately, your partnership will tend to bring out a strong sense of will and a self-centered approach in the pursuit of your mutual goals. When you take time to give those around you as much attention as you give yourselves, and learn to develop receptivity as you move forward, you bring more balance to the situation.

With this placement, you learn more from practical matters than from schooling. In fact, you two will probably not discuss and share Ideas unless they have a practical application. You will also tend to consider an idea carefully and thoroughly before acting on it. This is a great placement for business relationships as well as personal ones, blessing working partnerships with a gift for sound decision making. This relationship also inspires an artistic quality of mind, together with a well-developed aesthetic sense. You may also find in each one of you a strong tendency to go your own way, and to believe what you want to believe. You each may profit from cultivating a more open-minded attitude. in a profound way. You may not immediately express your ideas; instead choosing to get your point across nonverbally, or when you decide that the time is right. You may also have a tendency to make judgments about each other and those around you. It benefits your relationship if you each make a practice of acceptance and understanding of each other. This bodes well for the two of you as long as you live from what is alive in you and not from fear or defensiveness. Your joint will is strong, and you have a passion for discovering the truth behind surface appearances. You tend to penetrate the depths of any subject. When you are as compassionate as you are penetrating, the relationship and all it touches can't help but truly benefit from these powers of 'psychic surgery.'

Composite Pluto in Libra (9° Lib 56') Composite Pluto in the First House

Pluto in the composite chart reveals the area of your shared experience where you will encounter your mutual drive for power and which will be transformative for the relationship.

As a partnership you may seem to possess an instinctual desire to explore all kinds of new directions, and you are likely to experience a strong sense of shared adventure along the way. You may also experience an intensity of connection between you that can lead you deeper into yourselves as you sort things out, and that could also be expressed as a form of struggle for ascendancy, either over your shared environment or over each other. In a romantic involvement, it may help to recognize that the genesis of such competition lies in each of you individually, and you each win when you are able to step back from the arm wrestling and pay attention to what's going on inside yourself. It can also help to pay attention to where the other person is coming from. When you learn how to really listen to each other you can head off the power struggles that can devastate your partnership and others around you. New directions for the relationship can be created with each of you working with rather than against each other. As the will of each of you becomes the will of both, synergistic co-creation can occur. And as you dedicate yourselves and your journey to higher ideals, you have the potential to become a channel for healing yourself and society around you as well.

In this relationship, you have a calling to learn all about the nature of your partner's needs and expectations, and there may also be power issues to contend with as one or the other unconsciously tries to dominate. As you sort things out with each other, you will transform yourselves around the issues of balance and control. In a romantic relationship, this transformation toward balance may at first manifest as an unconscious acting out of traditional roles. As you begin to resist playing out old patterns with your partner, a powerful love/hate response may arise in either one of you. Getting to the point where your will becomes harmonized with your partner takes time, but eventually the two of you will develop the ability to at least partially begin to "act as one," as power struggles give way to shared love and mutual respect. Gaining the courage to begin to confront these patterns becomes the challenge. You benefit when you allow time for shared reflection when your needs are not being met.
